The Peaceful Pacific

I stride along small grains of rock, feels like powder
The Sand, Golden and damp; my feet sink into the earth
High tides ascend over my ankles; sends chills down my spine
Walking up and down the narrow path of soft grind I am spotted
Sun breaking through the clouds, it warms my cool body
Listening to the roaring of the ocean waves, it carries me to peace